AASL STANDARDS FRAMEWORK for

Introducing the AASL Standards Framework for LEARNERS

THE AASL STANDARDS Framework for Learners pamphlet presents the standards framework for application with students and other learners. This is one of three sets of standards that make up the AASL Standards Integrated Framework featured within the National School Library Standards for Learners, School Librarians, and School Libraries. The AASL Standards framework reflects a comprehensive approach to teaching and learning by demonstrating the connection between learner, librarian, and library standards. Each section of the standards framework was designed to reflect the others, ensuring that standards-related activities would be mutually reinforcing, simultaneously building capacity among learners, school librarians, and the school library. This pamphlet provides educators access specifically to AASL's learner standards.

A wheel chart illustrating the relationship of the components within the AASL Standards framework structure.

Common Beliefs

How do we define the qualities of well-prepared learners, effective school librarians, and dynamic school libraries?

IN THE STANDARDS remodeling process, the American Association of School Librarians (AASL) reviewed Common Beliefs from earlier AASL Standards and official AASL position statements. These documents, and feedback collected from more than 1,300 school librarians and stakeholders nationally, provided AASL with a clear expression of the qualities of well-prepared learners, effective school librarians, and dynamic school libraries. The following Common Beliefs and summary descriptions were identified as central to the profession.

1. The school library is a unique and essential part of a learning community.

As a destination for on-site and virtual personalized learning, the school library is a vital connection between school and home. As the leader of this space and its functions, the school librarian ensures that the school library environment provides all members of the school community access to information and technology, connecting learning to real-world events. By providing access to an array of well-managed resources, school librarians enable academic knowledge to be linked to deep understanding.

2. Qualified school librarians lead effective school libraries.

As they guide organizational and personal change, effective school librarians model, promote, and foster inquiry learning in adequately staffed and resourced school libraries. Qualified school librarians have been educated and certified to perform interlinked, interdisciplinary, and cross-cutting roles as instructional leaders, program administrators, educators, collaborative partners, and information specialists.

3. Learners should be prepared for college, career, and life.

Committed to inclusion and equity, effective school librarians use evidence to determine what works, for whom and under what conditions for each learner; complemented by community engagement and innovative leadership, school librarians improve all learners' opportunities for success. This success empowers learners to persist in inquiry, advanced study, enriching professional work, and community participation through continuous improvement within and beyond the school building and school day.

4. Reading is the core of personal and academic competency.

In the school library, learners engage with relevant information resources and digital learning opportunities in a culture of reading. School librarians initiate and elevate motivational reading initiatives by using story and personal narrative to engage learners. School librarians curate current digital and print materials and technology to provide access to high-quality reading materials that encourage learners, educators, and families to become lifelong learners and readers.

5. Intellectual freedom is every learner's right.

Learners have the freedom to speak and hear what others have to say, rather than allowing others to control their access to ideas and information; the school librarian's responsibility is to develop these dispositions in learners, educators, and all other members of the learning community.

6. Information technologies must be appropriately integrated and equitably available.

Although information technology is woven into almost every aspect of learning and life, not every learner and educator has equitable access to up-to-date, appropriate technology and connectivity. An effective school library bridges digital and socioeconomic divides to affect information technology access and skill.

How Are the Standards Used?

LIKE OTHER SETS of learning, professional, and program standards, the AASL Standards are not a curriculum; rather, they provide you with guidance and structure as you develop a curriculum tailored to your local priorities and needs.

The contents of the standards are designed to be used in two ways:

1. As Personalized Guides. Learners and school librarians can enter the standards at the point most appropriate to the learning task or professional activity and use the standards to guide decisions about actions to develop specific competencies.

2. As Progressions. Learners and school librarians first engage with the Domains at the level of Think, and once mastery of the Competencies related to Think are achieved, progress through Create, Share, and Grow.

Teaching and learning are at the center of school librarians' practice. As learning leaders, school librarians enact, model, and communicate the Competencies in the Domains. This domain-based approach to organizing the standards ensures that school librarians are able to personalize their professional practice and growth, continuously tailoring their school library to local needs, their own strengths, and learners' benefits.

The Complete Standards

AASL'S NATIONAL SCHOOL Library Standards for Learners, School Librarians, and School Libraries offers the AASL Standards Integrated Framework in full and expands on the application and assessment of the standards. Sections of the book include:

- the six integrated frameworks (Inquire, Include, Collaborate, Curate, Explore, and Engage) anchored with details that explain the Competencies and best practices, which include practices school librarians can use to get started with effective implementation of the standards;
- detailed approaches to measuring success. The goal of competency-based education is to support learners' growth through personalized learning experiences. Examples are provided for creating your own assessment and evaluation tools that align school and district models with AASL Standards; and
- a series of case studies that illustrate authentic scenarios through which district-level supervisors and building-level school librarians can envision putting the AASL Standards into action.

How Does It Work?

THE AASL STANDARDS framework is anchored by six Shared Foundations—Inquire, Include, Collaborate, Curate, Explore, and Engage—which highlight the standards’ core educational concepts. A one-sentence Key Commitment describes the essential understandings for each of the six Shared Foundations.

Each Shared Foundation is elaborated by three to five Competencies for each learning category or Domain: Think (cognitive), Create (psychomotor), Share (affective), and Grow (developmental). The Competencies are measurable statements describing the knowledge, skills, and dispositions essential for learners and school librarians.

For school libraries the Competencies are expressed as Alignments.

Figure 1 illustrates the arrangement of these components in the AASL Standards Integrated Framework featured in the National School Library Standards. Shared Foundations, Key Commitments, and Domains appear across all three standards sets for learners, school librarians, and school libraries. The parallel structure helps articulate how student learning relates to school librarian practice and to the overall school library environment. Each Shared Foundation is most effectively executed when viewed across all three standards sets.

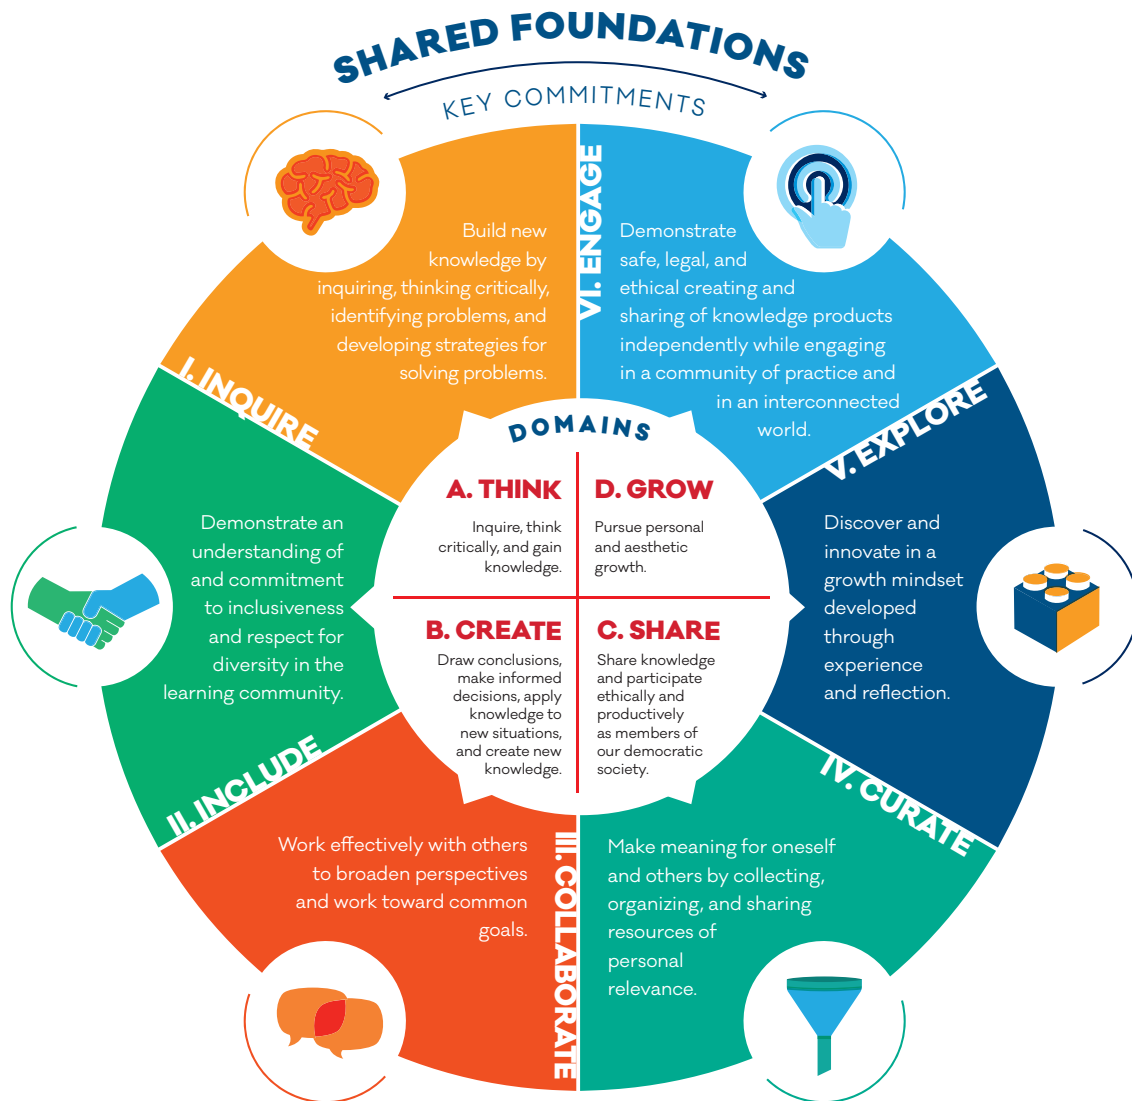

FIG. 1 A structural overview of the components in the AASL Standards Integrated Framework featured in the National School Library Standards for Learners, School Librarians, and School Libraries. The learner standards are just one of three integrated standards sets. In the integrated framework, the learner Competencies are joined with Competencies for school librarians and with school library Alignments.

Domain	LEARNER DOMAINS AND COMPETENCIES	SCHOOL LIBRARIAN DOMAINS AND COMPETENCIES	SCHOOL LIBRARY DOMAINS AND ALIGNMENTS	The school library facilitates the Key Commitment to and Competencies of INQUIRE	Domain
A. Think	Learners display curiosity and initiative by: 1. Formulating questions about a personal interest or a curricular topic. 2. Recalling prior and background knowledge as context for new meaning.	School librarians teach learners to display curiosity and initiative when seeking information by: 1. Encouraging learners to formulate questions about a personal interest or a curricular topic. 2. Advancing learners' prior and background knowledge as context for constructing new meaning.	The school library enables curiosity and initiative by: 1. Embedding the inquiry process within grade bands and within disciplines. 2. Using a systematic instructional-development and information-search process in working with other educators to improve integration of the process into curriculum.		A. Think
B. Create	Learners engage with new knowledge by following a process that includes: 1. Using evidence to investigate questions. 2. Devising and implementing a plan to fill knowledge gaps. 3. Generating products that illustrate learning.	School librarians promote new knowledge generation by: 1. Assisting in assessing the inquiry-based research process. 2. Devising and implementing a plan to fill knowledge gaps. 3. Facilitating the development of products that illustrate learning.	The school library enables generation of new knowledge by: 1. Providing experiences with and access to resources, information, ideas, and technology for all learners in the school community. 2. Supporting flexible scheduling to provide learner and educator access to staff and resources at the point of need.		B. Create
C. Share	Learners adapt, communicate, and exchange learning products with others in a cycle that includes: 1. Interacting with content presented by others. 2. Providing constructive feedback. 3. Acting on feedback to improve. 4. Sharing products with an authentic audience.	School librarians guide learners to maintain focus throughout the inquiry process by: 1. Assisting in assessing the inquiry-based research process. 2. Providing opportunities for learners to bring products and reflect on processes with others.	The school library provides learners opportunities to maintain focus throughout the inquiry process by: 1. Creating and maintaining a teaching and learning environment that is inviting, safe, adaptable, and conducive to learning. 2. Enabling equitable physical and intellectual access by providing barrier-free, universally designed environments. 3. Engaging with measurable learner outcomes and with data sources to improve resources, instruction, and services.		C. Share
D. Grow	Learners participate in an ongoing inquiry-based process by: 1. Continually seeking knowledge. 2. Engaging in sustained inquiry. 3. Enacting new understanding through real-world connections. 4. Using reflection to guide informed decisions.	School librarians ensure an inquiry-based process for learners by: 1. Leading learners and staff through the research process. 2. Constructing tasks focused on learners' individual areas of interest. 3. Enabling learners to seek knowledge, create new knowledge, and make real-world connections for lifelong learning.	The school library ensures an inquiry-based process for learners by: 1. Encouraging and supporting a learning environment that builds critical-thinking and inquiry dispositions for all learners. 2. Reinforcing the role of the school library, information, and technology resources in maximizing learning and institutional effectiveness.		D. Grow

When referring to a specific Competency or Alignment within the standards, you can use the numeric and letter indicators. For example, the following Competency for Learners could be stated as learner standard I.B.3.

because it references the first Shared Foundation (Inquire), the second Domain (Create), and the third Competency.

I.B.3. Learners engage with new knowledge by following a process that includes: Generating products that illustrate learning.
